Sleeping Beauty

SOFIA, Fri Sep 1, (Reuters) A sleeping girl flew home to Bulgaria and then back to Malta after aircrew did not see that she was still on the plane.

The girl was still sleeping while the plane flew back to Malta. When she woke up, the plane was in Malta.

The 17-year-old girl was traveling alone on an Air Malta plane from Valletta to Sofia when she fell asleep.

The girl paid 200 euros ($256) for the second flight home. She finally saw her family on Thursday, almost four days after her long sleep.

World's Largest Cappuccino

VERONA, Italy January 30 (Reuters) - Italian barman Ettore Diana made a 330-gallon cappuccino on Tuesday, setting what he said was a world record with his massive cup of coffee and hot milk.

About 500 liters of espresso coffee and 1,000 liters of frothy milk were poured into a giant 2.25-meter (7.5 ft) high cup during the day, with the help of 160 people and dozens of espresso machines.

Diana has already made it into the Guinness Book of Records with a giant tea and a giant cocktail. The barman made coffee all day in the northern Italian city of Verona to beat the previous record of a 1,100-liter cappuccino made by two barmen in Indiana in the United States.

'Missing' Holidaymakers Couldn't Face the Stairs

PARIS Friday May 10 (Reuters) - Three elderly British holidaymakers who disappeared while traveling in France and started a huge manhunt have turned up safely on Friday, happily enjoying their holiday, French police said.

The three, aged 77, 78 and 80, didn't know that police in France, Spain and Britain had been looking for them and that relatives were worried.

The holidaymakers, all frail and on medication, arrived on May 4 at a holiday flat in the Mediterranean town of Collioure. But they left, without telling anyone, because they couldn't face the stairs.

An agency in nearby Perpignan found them accommodation in another town and telephoned police on Friday after seeing pictures of the missing three in a local newspaper.

Vocabulary

couldn't face - didn't want to contemplate stairs - steps; something you go up and down in a house or building
